

High Times Presents: Jorge Cervantes' Ultimate Grow DVD
(High Times Productions)
by Paul Autry

One thing's for sure...Better Homes & Gardens this isn't. However, the information contained on this instructional DVD will make your home...and garden...a hell of a lot better if you take this knowledge and put it to good use. This release features everything you need to know about growing marijuana. We start off with a lesson on how to build a grow room from the ground up pretty much...including information on lamps, lights and electricity. Then we get into the party plant itself...starting with the seeds, clones...blah, blah, blah...right up to harvest time. Everything in between is covered as well...the soil, how to deal with pests, disease and fungi, the difference between plants, air, circulation, soil, containers...this dude talks about it all. I'm no expert on marijuana. But, I think it's safe to say that he didn't leave anything out...he even threw in some advanced techniques for good measure. There's also a nice little catalog that comes with it. This ain't no cheap production either...this release is, if you'll pardon the pun, very high quality. Top notch stuff here, dude. On a personal level, I'm not really into marijuana. I'm happy with beer...that does the trick for me. But, if you're a pot head and you grow your own, make sure you check this out. Oh, yeah...and don't get caught.
