Outside of serious documentary, there are four kinds of releases that deal with growing and using Marijuana. You can have those programs that go out of their way to show you how to cultivate/grow it like Grow

Like A Pro from the infamous High Times Magazine, Hempsters argues that growing for a sturdier competitor to cotton is harmless and could be very environmental and help the future of the U.S., then you have the new pro-medical argument A NORML Life (2011) where everyone suddenly has a medical reason for using it despite current laws and you have dramas like Bernard Rose's Mr. Nice (2009) which inadvertently glamorize the lifestyle, especially in these tales of kingpins who have it made.

Grow Like A Pro comes with a guide book and the disc is loaded with everything you need to know to break the law..., I mean spawn the healthiest plants for your use. It is free speech and it has not been pulled yet. Nico Escondido is your expert host with massive experience on the subject (no stereotype jokes please) and convinced me of his knowledge. However, the cover almost looks like another National Lampoon comedy.
