Visitors to the High Times \(http://hightimes.com/\) website are rewarded with everything they've always wanted to know about grass but didn't know whom to ask. Where else can one purchase a pot leaf cookie cutter or "Veterans of the Marijuana War" membership kit? (Never mind; forget I asked.) It only makes sense that a video be produced for those interested in the agricultural side of the subject.

Designed for both the beginner and the advanced grower, High Times Presents Nico Escondido's Grow Like a Pro \(http://hightimes.com/video/ht_admin/7049\) features tips on "everything from indoor growing, to greenhouse techniques, to outdoor cultivation." With two hours of "comprehensive cultivation coverage," the documentary is a short course in marijuana propagation. In addition to the bonus material offered, this "unparalleled film contains never-before-seen footage of America's top medical grow facilities."

Arriving at retailers next week, A NORML Life: The American Marijuana Revolution \(http://www.amazon.com/Norml-Life-Vivian-McPeak/dp/B0053XZ900/ref=sr_1_1?ie=UTF8&qid=1312928029&sr=8-1\) is a chronicle of the "state of medical marijuana in America through interviews with patients, caregivers, activists and doctors." NORML \(http://norml.org/\) is the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws, and has advocated the decriminalization of cannabis for over forty years. Featured in A NORML Life: The American Marijuana Revolution are interviews with NORML conference attendees, as well as participants in Seattle's Hempfest 2010. Directed by Rod Pitman, who was also involved in Hempsters, A NORML Life: The American Marijuana Revolution reveals research and data about marijuana and its use. With an emphasis on medical and political (tax money) issues, it is an interesting look at an issue that affects millions.
