Sacramento's Keith Lowell Jensen releases comedy CD and DVD

Keith Lowell Jensen debuts CD and DVD

The Sacramento comedian behind the 2009 comedy CD To the Moon and the 2008 film Why Lie? I Need a Drink—which is half comedy and half documentary about life on the streets—had to be “dragged kicking and screaming” into making a comedy DVD. That’s surprising, considering how much Keith Lowell Jensen likes attention. His problem wasn’t a fear of attention—or of a camera—but rather a perfectionist’s desire to get it right. And he was calmed by the idea of being on an exploitation label.

“My feeling is that, when you’ve got no budget, you can produce a CD and the production quality is as good as anything out there, but with a DVD, it’s going to show,” Jensen told SN&R.

“I’m a filmmaker at heart, but the reason I’ve made so few films is that I like to work within the resources that I have, and I just felt you needed more resources for a good comedy DVD.”

So how did he end up with Cats Made of Rabbits, his latest comedy collection which debuts this week, in both CD and DVD formats? (Full disclosure: This critic once lectured Jensen about homophobia

He’s not quite John Waters, but the ’stache does make him look a little pervy. At least it’s not you-know-where.
