

BALLBUSTERMUSIC.COM

EVILUTION (Island Gateway Films)

By: Paul Autry

Here's a bad horror movie that's really not that bad if you simply want to waste an hour and a half on the couch because you don't have anything better to do. If you're the kind of person who will judge a movie based on the plot...well...you're probably gonna have a lot to complain about after you're done watching this one. It's kind of a zombie movie. I guess it's been compared to "28 Days Later," which I thought was a crap film...and the second one...I didn't even watch it the whole way through. But, anyway, here's the story...the military (of course) has some kind of microscopic alien life form that they're trying to turn into a weapon. Notice that I said "alien life form," okay? It does turn people into zombies...but...they're not really zombies...they're just dead people who come back to life and eat people. You with me so far? Anyway, this (cough, cough) alien life form ends up turning a military base into an army of undead not zombies because someone messed up. They drop a bomb on the place in order to contain the problem...but...but...one dude manages to slip away with a small bottle of this alien life form and he moves into this apartment building called The Necropolitan, which makes the slums look like a Holiday Inn. Why people would even want to live here is beyond me...and...let's not even get into the name. Anyone with an IQ higher than a wet rock would not live in a place that was called "necro" anything. But, this scientist moves into this dump so he can do research on this space junk...knowing full well what it can do...and with that thought in mind, when a semi-tough gangbanger gets shot for the 2nd time and dies...the scientist injects him with the alien life form...and you know how that's gonna turn out. Yep. He gonna bite some people and turn them into zombies. But, before he does, a junkie comes into the apartment which, by the way, is in the basement, and he steals the bottle of alien goo thinkin' it's gonna get him high. Guess what it turns him into? While all this is going on, the scientist goes to some hot chick's apartment to get a bottle of water for the gangbanger he just zombified...and instead of telling the chick what's going on...they have sex. Yeah...why worry about zombies when you can have sex with a woman you really know nothing about? Sex first, zombie problem second. Anyway, we can't forget about the army. They know where this scientist is and they know he has a bottle of the zombie junk and, of course, they send someone to take care of the problem. All the characters are in one building that they can't get out of because the doors all lock at night by themselves. It's a necro-something place...makes sense. Yeah, now, let's see...there's a big zombie rampage...have to make more zombies, right? There's blood, eating of the flesh...aaarrggghh...and tits. Can't forget about those. There's a blonde girl who dies with her tits bouncing around...because someone has to come out into the hallway and show some tits before they die, right? As much as I would like to stay here and focus on the tits...we have to finish this story. Well, it seems that alien life form zombies can be killed with a bullet to the head...or bleach. Yes, that's right...bleach. They mixed it with chlorine, which just happens to be found in the basement apartment behind a wall because the "necro" house was built over a swimming pool and the people who put this building up simply built around the huge tub of chlorine. Now that we have a way to kill the zombies, we have to find a way through the crowd of un-dead alien possessed flesh eaters so we can get to the roof and pour our zombie drink of death down into the heating system. So, we make water balloon bombs with the bleach and chlorine...and...wait...what do we make these with? How about the hundred condoms that a still alive gangbanger has in his pocket. Yeah, those will work. I always throw a condom filled with chlorine and bleach at an alien zombie when I see one and I'm sure you do as well. They make it to the roof...people die...zombies die...and that's that. End of story. Well, almost. Can't forget the surprise twist ending....SPOILER ALERT...the manager of the apartment building has the bottle of alien space goo and he puts it on display next to a bunch of other weapons or whatever...and the impression that I got was that he was the devil...and the last we see of him...he puts a "FOR RENT" sign on the front door. Guess he got that place cleaned up pretty damn quick, huh? Anyway, if you can get past all that, it's kind of an okay movie to waste some time with. I actually enjoyed it and I will watch it again from time to time. If you haven't seen it yet...my suggestion would be to check it out at least once. After you see it and you know what it's all about...then you can decide if you like it or not. I think most people will enjoy it for what it's worth...and the rest of them won't be able to get past that wonderful plot.

<http://www.EvilutionTheMovie.com> <<http://www.evolutionthemovie.com/>>