EXCLUSIVE:Conlee Talks "Evilution", "Basement Jack" Coming In November!

We recently got a chance to chat with Evolution Director Chris Conlee about his sci-fi-horror pic which arrives to DVD on the 17th of November. As with most movies, if the DVD does well, a sequel is usually quickly fast-tracked. But Conlee tells us that while no sequel to "Evolution" is imminent, a trilogy involving an important set piece and character in the film has been put forth. "Black Gate Entertainment planned a trilogy, with all the films revolving around the apartment complex in the movie, The Necropolitan, with Nathan Bexton in all three films," he explains. "The first two have been shot and are being released at the same time on November 17th, 2009. The first film is, "Evolution," and the second film is, Basement Jack, directed by a friend of mine named Michael Shelton. The third film hasn't been shot yet, for financial reasons, but hopefully it will. After that, there's definitely been talk of a sequel, but who knows...No script exists yet, and I haven't even heard what the premise would be. Still, it'd be fun and I'd definitely want to do it if they asked me"

We'll have more with Chris as our full interview with him will be posted later today so stay tuned! "Evolution" meanwhile stars Noel Gugliemi, Marie Antoinette, Nathan Bexton, and Jonathan Breck. In the film...a hostile alien intelligence, with the ability to possess a dead human body and resurrect it, is stolen by a young scientist, Captain Darren Hall, in hopes that he can find a way to learn from it while keeping it safe from a military that wants to program it as a bio-weapon.
