

The Color Out of Space

Pitch: It's the next best thing to Guillermo del Toro's At the Mountains of Madness...

Why Rent? The disappearance of Jonathan Davis' father is a mystery that takes him to the back woods of Germany and a secret from decades past. HP Lovecraft's short novel gets an indie adaptation here, but what it lacks in budget it more than makes up for in spirit, creativity and enthusiasm. It's in black & white, the dialogue moves back and forth between German and English and the pacing is intentional and methodical, but it's a damn fine adaptation all the same. [Extras: Newspaper insert, trailer, deleted scene, featurettes]

---

Disney Nature: Chimpanzee

Pitch: The musical numbers are most impressive...

Why Rent? Oscar is a young chimpanzee given a human name to make him more adorable. Follow along this tightly edited adventure as he has fun with friends, family and the world around him. Regardless of the forced narrative the visuals and cinematography here are spectacular. DisneyNature has done a fine job in recent years stepping up their nature game and replacing Discovery and National Geographic along the way for the go to source of quality features. [Extras: Making of, music video, featurettes]

---