

school basketball player with a bright future. But he discovers, partly through a new love, that his plans can easily change.

Not rated, 100 minutes. The disc holds deleted scenes, bloopers, a music video and a "behind the scenes" featurette.

*

Vampire Dog () Kids might enjoy this story of 12-year-old Ace (Collin MacKechnie), who inherits his grandfather's dog, Fang, a 600-year-old vampire voiced by funnyman Norm MacDonald. Some light chuckles, but mostly for the young ones. Not rated, 91 minutes.

*

Drunkboat (*) John Malkovich and John Goodman star in this enjoyable but slight shaggy-dog story about a soused reprobate (Malkovich) who returns to the home of his sister (Dana Delany) despite her reservations. Meanwhile, her son plans on buying a rickety boat from a shady dealer (Goodman).

Paths that have been crossed cross again in this talky amusement based on director Bob Meyer's own stage play. Not rated, 98 minutes.

*

Cleanskin ()Cleanskin, which would be a good name for an acne cream, stars Sean Bean as Ewan, a British secret agent who goes rogue to hunt down a terrorist (Abhin Galeya) hiding in London. Along the way, Ewan leaves a path of dead bodies only to end up with an unexpected target. Violent yet well paced.

Not rated, 107 minutes. The DVD includes a 23-minute "making of" featurette.

*

Strippers vs. Werewolves () The title says it all in this horror-comedy about a pack of London's most vicious lycanthropic creatures facing off against the denizens of a local strip club. Played entirely over the top but with plenty of blood and silicone.

Not rated, 93 minutes. The DVD also offers an 11-minute "behind-the-scenes" featurette.

*

Cinderella: Diamond Edition () One of Disney's most popular animated films returns in a spruced-up new edition, looking brighter and even more colorful than ever on Blu-ray. The familiar story sees Cinderella (voiced by Ilene Woods) going to the royal ball — in spite of her mean stepmother, and with timely help from some mice — and meeting Prince Charming.

Rated G, 75 minutes. The feature comes in many forms, including a six-disc jewelry box set, but also in three- and two-disc combos. Check labels, but depending on the version, an abundance of supplements are offered, including Disney's Second Screen interactive feature, half a dozen games and activities, and more

*

And, finally, from our TV arrivals:

Portlandia: Season Two This unexpected hit, and Peabody Award winner, from IFC has gained a devoted following for the antics of comedians Fred Armisen and Carrie Brownstein. Filmed entirely in Portland, Ore., with a revolving supporting cast, Ten episodes come on two discs.

Not rated, 220 minutes. Supplements include commentary, a tour of Seattle, an "Inside Portlandia" featurette, a deleted scene, the director's cut of an episode, and more.

*

Magic City: The Complete First Season Jeffrey Dean Morgan stars in this original Starz series drenched in atmosphere. Beginning in Miami Beach on Dec. 31, 1958, the day Fidel Castro triumphed in Cuba, the series sports the garish big-finned sedans of the era, a topical music score and brilliantly rendered wardrobes.

Morgan plays Ike Evans, owner and founder of the new Miramar Playa hotel. Each week, he deals with unions, the mob and a new influx of Cuban immigrants, not to mention Frank Sinatra and JFK.

Not rated, 419 minutes. Extras include a 14-minute "making of" featurette, eight minutes on "The Real Miami Beach," and brief segments on the cars, sets, styles, music and more.