MOONLIGHTING WIVES &
NAKED FOGS (Blu-ray)
Film Movement Classics

A pioneer of sexploitation cinema, American film director and screenwriter Joseph W. Sarno's prolific career spans the evolution of the genre. In this latest double feature, Moonlighting Wives (1966), dripping with color, introduced Sarno's psychosexual erotic dramas to popular audiences when it screened in mainstream cinemas and drive-ins. For his next productions, he returned to his trademark economical black-and-white dramas including The Naked Fog (1966) presented here for the first time to home media. Mesmerizing performances by star Tammy Latour link these prime examples of Sarno's 1960s films. In Moonlighting Wives, 1960s suburbia becomes a hotbed of rampant adultery and illicit sexual encounters in this torn-from-the-headlines drama. Disgruntled housewife Joan turns her stenography service into a thriving prostitution ring that has local law enforcement baffled. Needing more housewives to grow her business with wealthy clientele, Joan gives adulterous and well-connected golf pro Frank a piece of the action, sparking a chain of events that lead her on an odyssey of blackmail and ever closer to the police. The Naked Fog has long been considered a "lost" film in Sarno's filmography. In this classic, jaded jet setter Marge (LaTour) starts a new identity as a writer in upper east coast suburbia. But when writer's block hits, the town brothel - a hotbed of infidelity and blackmail - offers the perfect inspiration.

DEMOCRATS ARE THE ONLY ONES PUSHING IMPEACHMENT TALK

Lately, I have been getting lots of Democrat political emails that get scarier with each one. The latest was from Turnout Project, a political action group stating that the radical MAGA Republicans are out to impeach Secretary Pete Buttigieg, and that he is one of many of the GOP wants to impeached. Not true.

Turns out this disinformation, constantly spreading online, has no validity. In reality, it is the Democrats who are the impeachment party. Latest news from Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez is clear, she wants to impeach Justice Clarence Thomas and Marjorie Taylor Greene. Chuck Schumer and the Democrats are pushing an investigation of Thomas' ethics as a member of SCOTUS, wanting the Senate to call for a hearing to remove him from the bench.

This is all pure disinformation to muddy the waters and stir up their Democrat base. First off, no way Thomas is impeached, because the Republican House controls that action from ever happening. There won't be any impeachment trial in the Senate. Secondly, all three branches of government are co-equals. Thomas has committed nothing illegal no matter how badly Democrats think he has. This is all just smoke and mirrors to generate fundraising for the 2024 elections and nothing more.

GAS PRICE ON MERIDIAN STREET,
NOW $4.09

I almost passed out this past Monday morning when driving along Meridian Street in East Boston near the old police station and saw the price at $4.09 a gallon. I waited until I got over to Quincy where the prices ranged from $3.29 to $3.35. Can't blame this on Biden.

$6 MILLION MAN

Back in my younger days, I loved watching The Six Million Dollar Man. Remember actor Lee Majors? He played a great '70s action hero named Steve Austin. He may have never been in the WWW, but no way could the other Steve Austin from wrestling beat a bionic guy.

Yes, the show was pretty silly but it was fun to watch. I did like the Bionic Woman more because actress Lindsay Wagner was so hot to a 20-something college student. She wasn't Rachel Welch but she'd do for me. Oh, I almost forgot the whole purpose of this item here. Lee Majors just turned 84 over the past weekend. Betcha with bionics and all, he isn't running so fast today, huh?

FRIENDS OF BELLE ISLE MARSH

This past Saturday morning Earth Day was celebrated at Belle Isle Marsh. I could only hang out around the marsh for about 15 minutes. There were a few people freezing while watching a few birds also freezing. Last year, it was so warm and the place was crowded, but I still won't be blaming climate change for the lower than average temperatures. I will get back there in warmer weather to enjoy this amazing hidden gem so close to all of us.

AS AN UNENROLLED VOTER

A political outlier named Robert F. Kennedy Jr., has announced in Boston that he is running for president as a Democrat in 2024. (See News Briefs column on Page 1). I've listened to him speak and some of the stuff he preaches I disagree with, but other things I like very much. He is nowhere as charismatic as his dad Bobby Kennedy, but much of what he is saying I believe.

This is no longer 1968, when most Americans believed and trusted in their government. Since the death of Bobby Kennedy back in June of 1968, most of us have come to believe that we are deceived all the time. We have a ruling class of liars and they not only lie, but are incompetent, too. Every action they take serves them, not us.

Our nation has become a worldwide joke. Our enemies don't fear us and our friends and allies can't trust us. I voted for Donald Trump twice, but he is sounding pretty "stugots" at times if you ask me. His plan for dealing with homelessness is pazzo, too.

For me, it will be Kennedy over Biden, but if it's Biden vs. Trump, then my only hope is Trump. Who can take another four years from an empty vessel?

Right now, I am leaning toward Robert Kennedy Jr.

CLASSIC CAR CORNER

While driving along Hancock Street in Quincy recently, I stopped off at O.B.'s Diner for a bowl of oatmeal and spotted a beauty of an automobile parked next to the diner. It was a red Chevy Classic convertible from 1975 in mint condition. Eight bolt cylinders and plenty of room for a bus load of passengers.
