Nocturnus (Live DVD)
A Farewell To Planet Earth

I don't understand why I never really cared for these guys. Probably at the time I heard the key, the keyboards in the music itself were a bit to cheesy for my liking. Boy do I ever regret it now. Now that I have a huge appreciation for keyboards in tunes. (I'm still not looking in the black metal direction. A little more now than before but still iffy.) Do I feel regrettably sorry for all the bands I have dissed in the past. After watching this shaky hand held version of live gigs from many different years, I kick myself in the ass for getting rid of their Earache Records album The Key. I love keyboards in tunes now, also since I am in a soundtrack scoring type deal band I can appreciate all that is eerie and now I see what they were trying to pull off. This live DVD is a testament of all that is dark, brutal and technical. Purveyors of horror death and stupid of my for not giving props were props is deserved. Can I get my CD back Metal Dan? Please.....
