Critical Times: Fishbone's Hen House Sessions

[Music Video Distributors]

Any time just one member of Fishbone enters a room, things get crazy. So when you cram the entire band into a tight recording studio space in Venice (especially one called the Hen House), it's simply off the hook. This documentary follows the legendary rap/jazz/funk/punks as Angelo Moore and Co. work on their most outrageous tunes yet, try to recapture some glory after a few rough years and figure out what it's all about. With interviews and visits to the members' homes, Times is the most telling glimpse into the band members' lives yet. This is critical viewing for anyone with good musical taste. {JR GRIFFIN}
