

GG ALLIN AND THE MURDER JUNKIES - "SAVAGE SOUTH"™ DVD

This is kinda like the follow up to the "Raw, Brutal, Rough and Bloody"™ DVD (also an MVD release) which showcased GG in 1991 and this collection of live shows from Georgia and Texas presents a more ferocious GG in 1992 wreaking havoc across Dixie on the Savage South Tour. Both of these DVDs (which comprise of 6 shows altogether) truly communicate the chaos of a Murder Junkies show. The violence, the danger and the fear. These are scary venues, scary audiences and a fuckin scary band!!! GG really had reach his no-compromise stage where every show reached higher level of hostility with the Murder Junkies taking their attack up a notch. These shows are unpredictable and turbulent and truly stand as a fundamental record of true, adamant punk rock. I just don't know what GG would think of the punk scene today if he was still here. This is significant and valuable footage because aside from the "Live and Pissed"™ video and the "Hated"™ documentary, it's pretty hard to get decent GG recordings and these 2 DVDs genuinely transmit the rawness and threat of this vicious but devoted punk rocker. I'm sure there will never be another GG Allin which is a pity because young punk kids haven't got any real sense of danger left in rock n' roll. Everything is so safe these days and that sucks. Where's the self-abuse? Where's the faeces? Where's the risk???? These DVDs are compulsory viewing, especially for younger punks- if you think what you're listening to is aggressive or violent think again because GG sang about it and did it. This may frighten you and that's what it's all about.
