This week's selections are a time capsule of must-have moments. Check out the "latest" from New York Dolls, Public Enemy, The Velvet Underground, and a thing called Graffiti Rock.

New York Dolls - All Dolled Up \(2005\)

All Dolled Up

Bob Gruen was in the right place at arguably the right time. For three years Gruen and his wife Nadya Beck documented the New York Dolls as they teetered and stumbled their way across various stages. All Dolled Up is more than a collection of primitive video moments, it is a full-blown documentary that captures the Dolls at such legendary venues as Kenny's Castaways, Max's Kansas City, the Whiskey-A-Go-Go, and Rodney Bingenheimer's E Club. It also captures the group's rough-and-tumble, cross-dressing take on rock 'n' roll in all of its potentially catastrophic glory. All Dolled Up features priceless group interviews, an interview with Bob Gruen by Handsome Dick Manitoba (the Dictators), commentary by David Johansen and Sylvain Sylvain, and so much more. This one is a must for New York Dolls fans and anyone that has an appreciation for the glory days of raucous early-seventies rock.
