This was a very well done DVD. The concert is from a show at the Hammersmith Apollo which is located in London, England. Along with that you get interviews, diaries, and two music videos which are "Got To Have Faith" and "Hero". Quite honestly who could have grown up in the 80's rock era without owning records by these guys? It's great to finally get your hands on some live concert footage. These guys perform the songs that made them rock. One thing I like about this particular DVD is that picture quality is awesome. All in all the guys were in great form that night and they really put on a hell of a show. Make sure you check out the second DVD. Great stuff.
