

Bad Brains, circa 1982

After getting banned from the Nation's Capitol on Christmas Eve 1982, the groundbreaking hardcore group Bad Brains took their music to New York City, where they rocked, and shocked, the city with three days of controversial performances at CBGB.

Nearly 25 years later, "Bad Brains: Live CBGB 1982," pays homage to that event by collecting its best moments.

The DVD, courtesy of MVD Entertainment Group, features 17 songs, including "Banned in D.C.," "The Meek Shall Inherit," and "Pay to Cum," as well as several 1982 interviews with the band.

In honor of its release, MVD will host several screenings of the disc across the nation, including a showing in Washington, D.C.

By Jeremy Buckley