

Rolling Stone

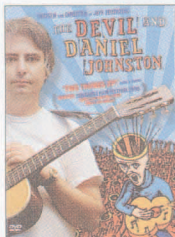

Rolling Stone Magazine
October 5, 2006
issue

DVDs

U2 – Zoo TV Live From Sydney ★★★★★

Earnest rockers discover irony, joy
Island/Universal
In 1992, after a decade of singing about Chilean dictators and waving white flags, U2 decided to simply get goofy. Captured here at the end of the Zoo TV Tour, U2 play a few classics plus tracks from Achtung Baby and Zooropa against a wall of TVs displaying slogans like EVERYTHING YOU KNOW IS WRONG. The resulting sensory overload remains a high point in the band's history. ANDY GREENE

The Devil and Daniel Johnston ★★★½

An unsung indie hero gets his close-up
Sony
Since childhood, songwriter Johnston has sought fame, and while his music earned him a cult following and props from Kurt Cobain, his success was always undermined by his manic-depression. Now middle-aged and living with his parents, Johnston might never be a star, but this doc proves what he's long wanted to hear: He's the indie Brian Wilson. KEVIN O'DONNELL

Bad Brains Live at CBGB 1982 ★★★½

Afro-punk domination
MVD Visual
Punk pop music for black D.C. Brains v. amid of may ac band's crudely a 1982 New York City CBGB. D thrash D.C." an softene reggae Brains. people instrum down in

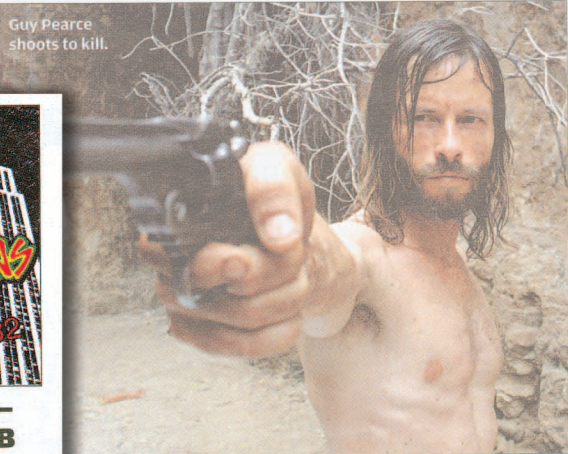

Bad Brains – Live at CBGB 1982 ★★★½

Afro-punks show their domination of a genre
MVD Visual

Punk posits itself as music for misfits; the all-black D.C. foursome Bad Brains were outsiders amid outsiders. That may account for the band's live ferocity, crudely captured during a 1982 hardcore fest at New York punk mecca CBGB. Dealing rapid-fire thrash like "Banned in D.C." and "Pay to Cum," softened with the odd reggae breather, the Brains inspire as many people to pick up instruments as lay them down in frustration.

GAYLORD FIELDS

The Proposition ★★★½ EXTRAS ★★★★★

Guy Pearce, Danny Huston, Emily Watson
Nick Cave / Directed by John Hillcoat / First Look

...es. The Proposition, a balls-out Western Australian outback during the 1880s, is the best movies to bust into the multiplex. But did you shell out to see it? Hell, no. ... transferred with optimum picture and ... a chance to catch up. Do it. Directed by ... coat from a potent script by rocker Nick ... also contributes to the evocative ... e movie is so gritty you can choke on the pregnant mother – the noose awa until Stanley offers Charlie a propos pardon for him and Mike if Charlie w down and kill the gang ringleader, C brother Arthur. As this near-mythic Danny Huston pours a lilting brogue Arthur's murderous rage and delive best performance. In a movie of star the most searing is the slaughter tha at the Stanley Christmas dinner, whe gives way to primitive chaos. Hillcoa offer commentary on that scene and it's the images that speak potently a for themselves.

YOU NEVER FORGET YOUR FIRST NIGHTMARE.

SPECIAL PACKAGING

