

July 2005

On the dope-smokin' video front, the Jamaican film Rockers has just been re-released. Post-"Harder They Come," but pre-"Countryman," the film is a great slice of late seventies Jamaica and the Kingston reggae scene, with appearances by Gregory Isaacs, Burning Spear, Big Youth, Joe Gibbs and plenty more. Sure, the plot has plenty of holes, and this time around they've added subtitles if you're scratching your head at the Jamaican patois, but the soundtrack is the good old stuff, before shit got all disco...

- Wez Lundry