Two men are camping in the woods of New Jersey and a meteor lands. Music Review: Nightwatch

The creature is discovered by the father and then the mother and before digesting the father, it attacked and eats the face off the mother...then for every victim it eats, it spawns more little alien creatures; who then goes in search, for new victims. The ending is hair-raising and I will not want to ruin it for the viewer.

The film is from 1983, and edition is called the Millennium Edition Blu-Ray copy. I was a teenager in the 80's and loved the horror movies with creatures from outer space. One of my favorites was 'Critters' and a fan of the original 'Blob', so when this little gem fell into my mailbox, I was stoked and excited to review it. If you are a fan of 80's Creature Features and low-budget horror, then, this is the movie for you. IF YOU ARE NOT...you will most likely find it to be overly cheesy and will not appreciate the work of art that you are watching.

The cool Extras featured on the Blu-Ray have behind the scenes making of the creature in a gag reel, commentary from the filmmaker and more. I enjoyed the commentary and mostly the gag reel. The characters and crew making the props and hanging out and having a good time, while making the movie, Deadly Spawn, it was refreshing to see less of what a computer can do, and more of what Men and Women could do and add to the production of Deadly Spawn.

I enjoyed sharing the movie watching with my daughter we had a good time. This is the kind of film that would good for movie night at home with friends, who like to yell at the screen and the characters. Like, "Don't go there!" "Watch out for the..." and so on. The movie is a fun time and is not meant to be taken seriously. So if you are looking for a good time, enjoy a throw-back to 80's Horror...and you like alien creature films, then I highly recommend Deadly Spawn.

This was my first Blu-Ray experience and thought the transfer was little off and after talking to another reviewer, was relieved that he too felt the same way and it was not just me. Other than minute detail, I loved the movie and the story.

7 out of 10.
