

AMEN/Self Titled (Metal Mind Productions) This really surprised me. I thought this was kinda suck, but lo and behold it is really good. This is another re-release and it is worth hunting down and checking out. The band play groove metal, but with an edge and style not many have done before and do not do now. The music can get fast at times and there is no tough guy vocals thank god. The band is kinds weird at times and hard to figure out. All I know it is a vicious assault that I might have dismissed as a bunch of junk, but trust me this baby kicked my ass. Info:
