Gucci Mane Raps on Dom Remix

Burrr?!

When I interviewed the one-named front man for indie-pop upstarts Dom for a Rising piece in April, he talked about his dreams of signing with Lil Wayne's label, Young Money Entertainment. "I wanna go clubbing with Drake and Weezy. I wanna just kick it with them, smoke some blunts, drink some Patron, play some video games. If they wanted to sign us, I'd be down like a clown, Charlie Brown," he said. Well, that shit hasn't happened. (Yet.)

But it seems a hell of a lot closer to reality

now that Dom got rap mixtape kingpin (and sometime Wayne collaborator)

Gucci Mane to drop a brand new verse and some trademark ad libs on their song "Living in America". Not only does Gucci go with the whole patriotic concept, he reps for Dom's hometown of Worcester, Massachusetts, rhyming "East Atlanta" with "Worcester-bama". Unreal.

When asked how the collaboration came about, Dom shot us this e-mail: "gucci mane is a friend of a friend of a friend of a friend. 6° of gucci. we were in LA when he was layn down some tracks so we figured we'd go crash his recordin sess!!! the charges were dropped and now we got gucci on a verse!!!"

There you have it.

The Sea and Cake Frontman Sam Prekop to Release New Solo Album

sam prekop
old punch card

The third solo album from Sea and Cake front man Sam Prekop, Old Punch Card, hits September 7 on Thrill Jockey. But while Prekop's first two solo LPs could've been confused for Sea and Cake jams, that is apparently not the case with this one.

There are no vocals or beats on the record, and only one track features guitar. Instead, Old Punch Card is an experimental record based on the sounds of a modular synthesizer. According to a quote from Prekop in a press release, "The most significant difference is that I've left the confines of 'song" structure.'" Tracklist is below.

For those interested in hearing Prekop's more song-based sounds, he's touring with his Sea and Cake buddies this fall opening up for Broken Social Scene. Dates here.

Old Punch Card:

- Old Punch Card
- Array Wicket
- Knitting Needles
- Brambles

- 05 Tell Work
- 06 November September
- 07 A Places
- 08 Lazy House

Watch Girls' Christopher Owens Play a New Song: "Oh My Love"

Plus chat about the new Girls album

At this past weekend's Pitchfork Music Festival, Girls frontman Christopher Owens won every conceivable best/worst-dressed award: neon car-crash button-up, pleated highwater khakis, sequined disco socks. A friend and I agreed that all this, combined with Owens' floppy new haircut, made him look like a nerdy professor from an 80s comedy-- one who somehow thinks he's cool and who plays in a band that sounds like Devo. Anyone who can pull off an outfit like that demands your attention, especially if he's writing really good songs.

Earlier this year, Girls contributed music gay hardcore short film called I Want Your Love, directed by Travis Mathews. More recently, Mathews sat n with Owens for a revealing video interview that included talk about a new Girls album (supposedly coming he end of the year! Jyeah!) and hooking up with dudes. Owens also played an acoustic version of a new Girls g called "Oh My Love", a fragile country track which was inspired by Dwight Yoakam and which Owens would like to hear Taylor Swift sing. Click below to watch; the song starts around the 1:53 mark.

There are also a few other live versions of new Girls songs floating around out there. Check "Honey Bunny" and "Lysandre" at Forkcast.

There is a lot of news about the music for the upcoming flick Scott Pilgrim Vs. the World. First, the soundtrack features new music from Beck and Broken Social Scene (as fictional bands), along with non-new tracks from people like Metric and Black Lips (as themselves). Then the deluxe edition of the soundtrack features a few more Beck songs. (Hear the Beck-sung version of "Summertime" over at We All Want Someone to Shout For.)

Hear Freddie Gibbs' Song With the Black Keys' Dan Auerbach and Bun B

Also the Cool Kids' Chuck Inglish and Chip Tha Ripper

Last weekend, Indiana rapper Freddie Gibbs absolutely ripped the stage at the Pitchfork Music Festival. And on August 3, Decon will release his Str8 Killa EP. The final track on that EP, "Oil Money", is a collaboration with a whole ton of dudes.

Texas legend Bun B raps on the track, as do fellow Midwestern up-and-comers Chip Tha Ripper and Cool Kid Chuck Inglish. One other Midwestern dude sings on the track but doesn't rap on it: the Black Keys' Dan Auerbach, who knows something about working with rappers.

The whole thing works as a nice, understated slow crawl, and you can download it from It's a Rap.
