

Monday, November 15, 2010

New Episode - Night of the Living Dead: Re-Animated is now available

Night of the Living Dead: Re-Animated Now Available!!!

Big thanks to the guys at Wild Eye Releasing for allowing us to show this great rendering of a classic.

Night of the Living Dead: Reanimated is an art show hung on the cult classic's timeline. Every scene serves as walls to hang artworks, the audio becomes the ambiance of the space and the original narrative serves as the theme that holds the show together.

Much like in a museum, the works are curated within the space to carry the viewer from one piece into the next with the intention that though the individual works vary greatly, juxtaposed they play off each other and leave the viewer with a unified experience.

Instead of trying to alter Image Ten's work, NOTLD:R seeks to showcase the responses that artists from around the world have had to this landmark film. For the optimal experience, we recommend that you first watch the original film as it will help to inform how you read the artwork.

For this episode - Rob Dimension thinks that Hollywood might be ready for him, so

Behind the Scenes featuring - CHAINSAW SALLY!?!?

Contact Us

Need to reach us? Want Late Night on in your area? Email us at LateNightHorrorHotel@Hotmail.com

Want to write for our site? We are always looking for Horror and Paranormal news, reviews and interviews. Email Rob at RobDimension@msn.com

Late Night Gift Shop

Dvds, T Shirts and Exclusive Items!!

Pigamortis sets him up on location. John Cannon, with his trusty Sasquatch, slowly loses control of the situation and shares a secret with Dead Neck Dave, Straight from the grave. Watch this one.

Late Night at the Horror Hotel presents Night of the Living Dead: Reanimated from Sickening Thud on Vimeo.

Posted by Rob Dimension at 3:30 AM

Labels: cult classics, george romero, Late Night at the Horror Hotel, new episode, Night of the Living Dead, reanimated, wild eye releasing, Zombies

0 comments:

Post a Comment

Chainsaw Sally link

Horror Hosts Graveyard

Site Counter

00013878

Awesom

Watch Episode 8