Fans of this unusual band should snag this one ASAP.

'Paul McCartney Really Is Dead: The Last Testament of George Harrison,' (MVDvisual, HHHH)

This Sept. 1 DVD directed by Joel Gilbert uses old footage, Beatles recordings, and mini-cassette tapes with the supposed voice of George Harrison (recorded after the 1993 knife attack that nearly ended his life) to add evidence to the theory expounded late in the Beatles' career that Paul had been killed in a car crash on Nov. 9, 1966. Furthermore, "George" reports that MI5, the British intelligence service, had encouraged/required the remaining Beatles to recruit a replacement Paul who was transformed into a closer look-alike through extensive plastic surgery.

The "clues" on Beatles recordings and album covers recalled during this program lend credence to this awful theory, even though "George's" voice isn't convincing at times. Conspiracy theorists and Beatles fans will enjoy this one immensely, though it will make them wonder.

'Revelation,' Lee 'Scratch' Perry (Megawave/MVDAudio, HHH)

This Aug. 10 CD follows recent Grammy-nominated albums by the reggae legend/king of dub; and is his third collaboration with British multi-instrumentalist Steve Marshall.

Perry is an important figure in the history of reggae music who helped develop the sound captured on many important recordings, and pioneered innovations as an engineer, producer, songwriter, and performer.

This album was recorded at Perry's studio in Switzerland and studios in California, New York, and England; and features Keith Richards, George Clinton and others. The opener, "Revelation Revolution and Evolution," features a deep Marley-type groove. Other highlights include the darkly humorous "Used to Drive a Tractor in Negrille" and
