Join us each week as Rob Hunter takes a look at new DVD releases and gives his highly unqualified opinion as to which titles are worth BUYing, which are better off as RENTals, and which should be AVOIDed at all costs.

And remember, these listings and category placements are meant as informational conversation starters only. But you can still tell Hunter how wrong he is in the comment section below. This week sees two titles worth buying that couldn't be more different... DisneyNature: Oceans and the goofy and gory Japanese flick Vampire Girl vs Frankenstein Girl. There are also several DVDs worth renting or avoiding all together including Assault Of the Sasquatch, Giallo, Predators, Please Give, Forbidden Lies, and more. Oh, and don't miss the feel good release of the year in our first installment of "WTF Of the Week"... Forgive Me For Raping You.

Click on any of the titles below to magically head over to Amazon.com and pick up the DVD. And don't forget to check out Neil Miller's hilariously titled This Week In Blu-ray for reviews on the latest high definition Blu-ray releases!

DVDs I'D BUY

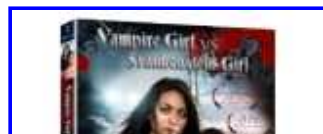

Disneynature: Oceans

Pitch: Discovery Channel better watch their back because there's a big, new player in the epic nature documentary game...

Why Buy? Pierce Brosnan narrates this beautiful and amazing look at the world's oceans and the lives they contain. The images are often breathtaking in their power and intricacy... one shot that transitions from a star-filled sky to a drop of water filled with sea urchin larva is particularly inspired. Docs like these may seem like old-hat thanks to some brilliant releases from Discovery/BBC in the past several years, but when done right each new one is like a fantastic reintroduction to the incredible world we live in. There are too many great scenes to single out, but some of the best include the spider crabs, the blanket octopus, and the walrus mother holding her little one in the water like any human parent would. And as an odd bonus several of the scenes at the ocean floor almost feel like a Jim Henson production.
