

Midnight's Lair Forum > General Discussion Area > That's Entertainment!

Review: Aaah!! Zombies!

User Name   Remember Me?

Password

Register

Blogs ▾

FAQ

Community ▾

Calendar

Search

Today's Posts

Post Reply

Thread Tools ▾ Display Modes ▾

12-14-2010, 03:03 PM

#1

phantasm74 Offline
Senior Member - Lair Supporter
Fanatic

Join Date: Nov 2007
Location: Herndon, Virginia
Posts: 691
Blog Entries: 20

Review: Aaah!! Zombies!

Movie review #2 today because I've seen some good ones in the last few days.

So from the title, you can guess that I was all for watching this movie. Zombies are what I love to see and I will sit through some of the worst movies ever made to see them.

This doesn't fit that category though. This movie, although they don't look to have had much of a budget, turned out very well done. It's a novel approach to the zombie film.

Aaah!! Zombies! tells the story from the point of view of the zombies. You don't see through their eyes or anything like that, but to them they look like they did when they were alive, and the living look like normal people too, but move and talk like they're being fast-forwarded. The fact that they are zombies isn't even revealed to them until later in the movie, the four friends think that they are super soldiers and that everyone else is a blood thirsty psycho infected with some government experiment gone wrong.

The movie starts out black and white and continues like that for some time. Anytime that you're seeing through the eyes of normal humans, it's B&W. At first I thought that the whole thing would be that way when I saw the chemical that causes it all, it was neon green and the only color anywhere. After infection though, the zombies see everything in color and most of the movie ends up staying that way.

This movie is also very funny. The fact that they're going about their business as if nothing is wrong is funny all by itself, but when they cut away to show you what's really going on while they shuffle through the town and interact with each other and the townsfolk is generally hilarious (zombies french kissing for example), not to mention that they are having strange urges once in a while that they shrug off as only a little weird (brain margaritas anyone?). There's also the apparent invulnerability that they don't give a second thought to.

This one's actually good. I don't know how it happened but I saw a good zombie film that wasn't from George Romero or some big budget hollywood production. Oh, I see, it' because it was released on my birthday 😊 being "aware of the truth" is a 88.5% indicator of crazy.

Here's the trailer. Give this one a chance if you're able.

Playing: Darkon

Support your local zombie horde.

Pics from ZombieFest '08 Masquerade Ball, Zombie Walk
Fight my Brute!!

Quote

Post Reply

Bookmarks

Twitter

<< Previous Thread | Next Thread >>

Posting Rules

- You may not post new threads
- You may not post replies
- You may not post attachments
- You may not edit your posts

BB code is On Smilies are On
 [IMG] code is On
 HTML code is Off

Forum Jump

Forum Rules

That's Entertainment !

All times are GMT -5. The time now is 03:31 PM.

Powered by vBulletin® Version 3.8.1
Copyright ©2000 - 2010, Jelsoft Enterprises Ltd.

12/16/2010

Review: Aaah!! Zombies! - Midnight's ...

© 1996-2009 Midnight's Lair and individual posters. Compilation copyright Midnight's Lair.
A vBSkinworks Design

-- Big Red Fluid

Contact Us - Midnight's Lair - Archive - Top