

Hard Vision Spring/Summer 2012

David Bowie "Rare & Unseen" (MVD Visual)

By: Paul Autry

Can I get away with "YAWN! YAWN! YAWN!" as a review? NO??? DAMN!! Okay...well...here's the thing. The main program is the ONLY program. 64 minute running time & an "unseen" (unseen meaning: "believed" unseen since 1st broadcast) interview between David Bowie & Russell Harty takes up most of that time & it's an odd, uncomfortable & awkward interview. Maybe that's a selling point, huh? But, seriously? It seemed like Bowie didn't want to be there & some of the questions? "What color's your hair?" "Do you need the money?" I've done better interviews jacked up on Red Death & 2nd hand pot smoke. I guess the seriously hardcore David Bowie fan might appreciate having this footage on DVD. I can't see anyone else gettin' too excited about it. It's usually hit or miss when you're dealing with an "unofficial product." In this case...it's a huge MISS! Strike three! You're out! 'Nuff said!
