Eyehategod - Live

Rough-edged, authentic "

leave while waiting for Sludge-legends EYEHATEGOD after her European tour last year was still up, it comes a new studio album - the time it would definitely be, after all, is the last studio album "Confederacy O Ruined Lives" back whopping eleven years - follows For the first time a DVD, which quite simply "Live" is the title.

Easy does it barely hits the nail on the head but, for while the 2004, "Live in Tokyo 2002" DVD included far fewer songs, there are "live" for the double pack of concert recordings from Cleveland [about 45 minutes; June 2010] and Baltimore [about 42 minutes; October 2009]. Also disclose EYEHATEGOD three songs as a live recording of the last European tour, more specifically from Vienna [about 14 minutes], and the three video clips "Sister Fucker", "Anxiety Hangover" and "Age Of Boot Camp" on top. A chic constructed package, then, even if there had been, for example, impressions of life on tour or even a short interview with the band not a bad idea. But who cares, because the recordings are not the epitome of a smooth polished live document, but that would be in a band like Eyehategod, the value on some edges and corners made or wants to have some wild at concerts rumpöbelt [including in Baltimore] or stoned is quite nice surprise too. Thus, both image and sound are not always knotless, with Cleveland performs better in terms of image, while the other hand, singing a few times is overloaded, for Baltimore in terms of image lagging behind somewhat, while the sound is fine. This is far and large, get over, because either way you get a good idea of a concert and EYEHATEGOD of the immense pressure that can stir up the guys from New Orleans. Ultimately, the DVD is of course not an adequate substitute for a personal experience of the quintet concert, but canned brings "live" with all needs, what the fan. This is mainly due to the divine song selection, because it was so clever, no duplication in the live pieces have to, so 25 different songs can be offered - okay, the feedback intro and outro, one could subtract confidently yet. Nevertheless, here follows a pearl to the next, such as "Jackass In The Will Of God", the obligatory "Sister Fucker", "Children Of God", "Depress" that [still] a great "Blank", "Kill Your Boss" [with funny message from Mike Williams] or even " $ 30 Bag ". And took care who will find that, of course, most of the pieces from the classic "Take As Needed For Pain" is, rely extensively on the EYEHATEGOD still. And that's a good thing, because along with the "hits" to the other three studio albums, here is a wonderful cross section of the career of inexorably commanded the right hinwalzenden NOLA-force, leaving little left to be desired and "live" a very entertaining and fun become thing.

In short: "Live" has become a good DVD, which contains more than about two hours away just what fans want to hear from EYEHATEGOD and that is really successful and powerful reactions of the studio material. Of course, now and then one or other wrong note here and also the tone and sound quality is not always outstanding, but so snotty and it somehow sympathetic acting troupe as EYEHATEGOD whistles with safety surface, smooth ironed and unloving aufgegleyte and post-processed bulk DVD product, but is it for authenticity. And so rough and unpolished almost overwhelming EYEHATEGOD a concert can be, has sometimes also "live", without that this would really bother. And that is the plus point of the DVD, and fans of the band will strike blindly anyway - and the quintet should be absolutely pure in July to take the next European tour! And maybe it is something really soon with a new studio album?
