Laid back but on fire. Can you imagine that? Then you must see “Candy,” this finally released capturing of a kicked back performance by Baker on trumpet, along with Jean-Louis Rassinfosse on bass and the nimble fingered Michel Graillier going at it on the piano. It makes for the perfect fusion of personalities and talent in this sizzling jazz session. Yes, it’s sizzling, but it’s so ... comfortable and intimate and personal. It puts you RIGHT THERE. This is the kind of heart, soul and feel a great jazz gig should have. Where’s Jack Kerouac fer chrissakes? I’m sure his ghost is around here somewhere. And to add some cherries to the top of this already luscious cake, jazz great Red Mitchell himself puts in an appearance on the bass!!! To boot, we get a candid interview with Baker as an introduction to the musical festivities. And man do they move but smooth!
