This review is from: Emerson Lake & Palmer - 40th Anniversary Reunion Concert (DVD)

To pull together 3 of the most innovative musicians for a '40 year' Anniversary concert was no small feat. It has been 12+ years since ELP had played together, and while this filmed concert had it's share of typical live event problems, the guys really pulled off a great show. It was great to see that legendary left hand of Keith's up close. Carl was in top form, and though 'life' had filled out Greg some, the voice was spot on (unlike some senior rockers) Had I known about this concert, I might have booked a flight to the UK. I have seen ELP every time they have been in the LA area since 1975. Cal-Jam, Anaheim Convention Center (where I purchased 12 seats right in front of the FOH mixing desk and had to round up 11 friends to go with) Last time was Irvine Meadows, where I introduced my kids to ELP.

The 'making of' video is a nice addition - explaining how this all come about. I don't know if ELP will do anything like this concert again, but I thank them for doing this DVD. It's so hard to describe their music and performance to those who have never experienced it. It was great to see all varied ages in the audience - and all seemed to be very serious fans.

Technically, the video was well shot, but the Dolby 5.1 mix was a bit uninteresting. A dts or a Blu-ray disc with Dolby-HD would have been fun to listen to, as ELP have always been very inventive when it comes to their sound (live or in studio). If you are an ELP fan, you need this DVD. If you would like to see and hear 3 guys play really complex rock/jazz/classical based music with NO sequencers and NO auto-tune, check'em out. (The proof is the Moog Modular still can't stay in tune...)
