★★★★☆ A reunion concert for one of the most popular : band hasn't played together for 12 years, but each member The band was offer to play this festival and they couldn't sa outdoor environment that is not the best for them.

Having the Blu-Ray Version, I was first impressed by the clarinet Ray. But to my disappointment, the sound was low and no surround sound. Fortunately, the sound of each instrument except the band to play like they did at their best in the 70's their best songs. I really enjoyed listening again to "The Bark" tracks; "Tarkus", "Pictures at an Exhibition". The musicians but nothing too distracting from the overall performance. Greg Palmer is still the same great performer.

The concert is rather short, because the band had time to rest some good memories. On the Blu-Ray there is also 30 minutes of comments coming from Greg Lake, when he was feeling the late 70's.
