

November 7, 2011

HUFF
POST

ENTERTAINMENT

THE INTERNET NEWSPAPER: NEWS BLOGS VIDEO COMMUNITY

NAZI HUNTERS ($19.95; MVD/Cineflix) -- This eight-episode TV series (made by Canadian and Brazilian partners) is a breathless documentary series with each episode devoted to the hyper-edited recollections of experts and sometimes the people involved in tracking down Nazis on the run like Eichmann and Klaus Barbie. The show is the sort of time-killer you can find on the History Channel, with cheesy reenactments and quick-cut editing to create some sort of excitement around the talking heads. The stories themselves are somewhat interesting and it might be viscerally enjoyable for those who like to see "the most evil men in history BROUGHT TO JUSTICE!" as the DVD says. But well-made? No.