effectual as a decent remake of Psycho, as her shower is interrupted by the possible killer. Some things play out as just plain silly though. Like the woman director of the school comforting a female student who has been betrayed by a male professor. He makes many of the students temporary play things before he moves on. Everything also points to him being the killer.

She comforts the young lass, saving all men are pretty much the same way, and she should come and spend the night at her place and she will make her forget all about him. Yes, time for another gratuitous lesbian scene, but this one is less sexual than the one in Wrong Turn 4.

Night School is another Warner Archive Release available only from the Warner archive.com website.

Hustleria (1965) another Warner Archive film, has a better plot, and more intricate at least.

Another one of the British Hammer suspense films, this one involves an American amnesia victim, who is being framed by a doctor and his mistress for the murder of the doctor's wife.

The mid-60s setting helps set this film's mood a lot.

The list of DVD horror in October continues with Mothman (Lions Gate), a SciFi original movie that first appeared on that channel in 2010.

West Virginia gets dissected once again. This film starts out ten years in the past when the high school/college age kids always found in these films, cause the drowning death of the younger brother of one of them. Instead of reporting the truth, they take turns smashing the boy's head with a rock (to make it look like an accident).

The film zooms to the present where Katherine (Jewel Staite) is forced to go back to her old home town for a newspaper assignment, to cover the popular Mothman Festival, a festival revolving around a mythical native American figure.

Of course, the Mothman isn't mythical, and he is plenty mad, and begins killing off the band that was sworn to secrecy ten years earlier.

Mothman won't cause you any nightmares, but it is a watchable enough horror entry.

If you don't like your horror with lots of blood and guts, Nazi Hunters, offers a look at some real horrors and the men behind them.

The award-winning National Geographic Series (the Gemini Award for best history documentary program in Canada) features the stories of eight Nazis who thought they had gotten away with their atrocities but are eventually hunted down.

You will know some of the names, such as Adolph Eichmann and Klaus Barbie, while others may be unfamiliar, but they are have one thing in common: either directly or indirectly were responsible for the slaughter of thousands of people during World War II.

This is a two disc set featuring eight different missions of secret agents and other avengers in a relentless pursuit of men who in some instances had been in hiding for decades.

Here is the episode guide for a few of the Nazi criminals:

Adolf Eichmann
By 1960, one of the world's most notorious Nazi war criminals, Adolf Eichmann, is living incoincidentally with his family on the outskirts of Buenos Aires under the alias Ricardo Klement. Known as the architect of Hitler's 'Final Solution' and directly culpable for the murder of six million Jews, the former Lieutenant Colonel of the SS is now himself a hunted man.

After receiving a tip that Eichmann has been spotted in Argentina, the Israeli secret service dispatches an agent to secretly take his photo. And upon confirming his identity, Mossad hatches an elaborate plan to kidnap Eichmann and smuggle him back to Israel to stand trial.

Two weeks later, a team of undercover agents arrives in Argentina. They stake out Eichmann and his neighborhood for days before coming up with a strategy... But capturing him alive is only the first step. Surrounded by Nazi sympathizers, they must somehow get him out of the country. Can they null off the extraordinary mission?

Klaus Barbie
As the Gestapo chief in Lyon, Klaus Barbie has the blood of 10,000 French Jews on his hands. But rather than being imprisoned after the war, he's instead hired by the CIA as an anti-communist agent. Eventually he escapes to Latin America where he works for dictators and drug barons and lives undetected for decades.

That is, until a middle class German housewife and mother vows to track him down. Married to a French Jew and living in Paris, Beate Klarsfeld and her husband Serge have dedicated their lives to bringing Nazi war criminals to justice. And, after successfully lobbying the German courts to reopen the case against Barbie, they mount a successful media campaign and track him down in Lima.

Hoping to convince local authorities to extradite him to Europe, Klarsfeld flies first to Peru, and when Barbie escapes to Bolivia, follows him to La Paz. She leads a series of powerful demonstrations, is herself imprisoned and eventually makes headlines around the world. But it will take another decade, a failed kidnapping plot and sweeping political change in Bolivia to bring the man known as the Butcher of Lyon to justice.

Of course not all monsters are Nazis and serial killers. The cable channel Animal Planet has been featuring some favorite monsters of the water variety in River Monsters. Recently released was season three of this popular series.

Hosted by extreme angler Jereme Wade (this is a British production) Wade goes to the jungles of New Guinea in search of the saltwater crocodile, the Parana River to search out not only piranha, but the short-tailed river sturgeon, a "monster" that grows to 6 feet across and features a venomous sting.

And in one particularly memorable episode (Electric Executioner) Wade is in one of his favorite haunts, the Amazon, to search for an electric eel that grows to an alarming 8-foot in length. The eel can produce as much as 600 volts of electricity.

This is a 2-disc set and it is available online and at area retailers. Season 4 of the series is scheduled for the spring.
