Animal Farm

review by

Mike Habermelner

The hookers of Brooklyn decide it's time to free themselves of their abusive, money-grabbing pimps, so under the leadership of Delilah (Osas Ighodaro), they form a union, an organisation meant to guard the girls from their own pimps, from the law, from whatnot. Of course, the pimps don't like the idea, the cops don't like the idea, so one pimp (Illa) is sent out to kill Delilah ... but he fucks up. Delilah though is killed anyways, by fellow hooker Cleopatra (Olivia Lopez), but nobody has witnessed this in all the commotion.

With Deliah gone, Cleopatra and Coco (Nefra Dabney) are quick to take over the union - after all, hookers still need protection, right, and to guard one another's back isn't exactly a bad idea.

Coco is an idealist she really cares for her hookers and wants to better life for them all. Cleopatra on the
