

'Two Headed Cow,' Dexter Romweber (MVDvisual, 4 stars)

This Nov. 22 DVD presents a film that was 18 years in the making, starring guitarist/vocalist/songwriter Romweber and his drummer Chris "Crow" Smith in a film that started as a black-and-white tour documentary following them along the same route as Civil War Yankee General Sherman. In its present form, the black and white is interspersed with older and newer film, most of it in color. The end of the Flat Duo Jets, the bouts with addiction and mental illness, the dissolution and formation of friendships, and the often precarious life of an artist are dealt with in uncertain but interesting terms. Friends and supporters like Neko Case, Jack White, Cat Power and others offer commentary on Dexter's musical journey. FDJ and Romweber fans should snag this DVD.
