Dreams from My Real Father DVD - Highway 61 Entertainment/MVD Visual
An alternate story of the life of Barack Obama is set forth for viewers.

Dreams from My Real Father is a well researched documentary focusing on Barack Obama's ties with Marxism, his philosophies, his associations, and his family background. By incorporating documented facts with film clips and speeches, the filmmaker weaves together a plausible alternate story of this man from the one the public has been told. By deliberately evading specifics about his life, President Obama has opened the door to these kinds of speculation.

The Story

The film delves into the childhood of Barack Obama and the association his family had with socialist Frank Marshall Davis, who is the man the filmmaker concludes is Barack's birth father. According to the film, Barack's mother was awed by Davis and formed a deep relationship with the man. When she became pregnant, her father devised a plan to use a Kenyan student, Barack Obama, and claimed he was the father, with the approval of Obama.

The future president attended Occidental College and according to the film, associated himself with admitted socialists. Obama was also aligned with Bill Ayers and his family.

The Facts

Many of the ideas and conclusions brought forth in this film are based on known facts. They are woven together in a cohesive manner that will have viewers wondering exactly what happened during the life of President Obama. Footage, photos, and documents are all part of the research that went into the film.

Director Joel Gilbert

The film's creator Joel Gilbert explained that he is qualified to make this film. "I have a background in Middle East and Islamic studies and in 2010 wrote and directed a film called Atomic Jihad: Ahmadinejad's Coming War and Obama's Politics of Defeat," he said. "While reviewing video of over 200 Obama speeches for that film, I noticed an odd pattern. When speaking of issues relating to the rich and the poor, Obama became very excited, speaking rapidly and louder, always in a higher pitch. On other subjects, he was quite calm. Why would Obama have an inner passion for class struggle? From my knowledge of his background, exclusive prep school, Ivy Leagues, Harvard Law - it didn't seem to fit. I then read his autobiography, Dreams from My Father, and noticed numerous references to Obama seeking out Marxist professors and friends, emulating Malcolm X, attending socialist conferences, and organizing. It was a life journey in socialism! Plus, of his visits to Communist Frank Marshall Davis' house with his grandfather, Obama wrote, 'it was as if I were witnessing some complicated, unspoken transaction between the two men.'"

Joel Gilbert went on to say, "I decided to investigate Frank Marshall Davis. His close physical resemblance to Obama was shocking, while Obama little resembled the Kenyan Obama. How could this be? Next, I unearthed two film archives of Frank Marshall Davis, one from 1973, the other from 1987, as well as Davis' photo collection. I then acquired 500 copies of the Honolulu Record, the Communist run newspaper where Davis wrote a weekly political column for eight years. I also obtained seven indecent photos of Ann Dunham, Obama's mother, taken at Frank Marshall Davis' house, suggesting an intimate connection between Dunham and Davis. I concluded the 'Birthers' were on a fool's errand. To understand Obama's plans for America, the question was not 'Where's the birth certificate?' the question was 'Who is the real father?'"

Why Make This Film?

According to Director Joel Gilbert, he made the film to bring up an alternate and admittedly plausible history of Obama. "Until now, Barack Obama was perceived as a nice man with an inspiring family story. Now, it seems likely President Obama intentionally hid a deeply disturbing family background and a Marxist agenda. If this is true, he is no longer likeable." Gilbert added, "Unfortunately, Obama's style is to minimize, misdirect, and outright lie about damaging information about his past. I hope the media will now demand that he come clean about his family background, his political foundations, and fully reveal his agenda for transforming America. It's one thing for 'journalists' to give Obama leeway because they support national health care, but providing cover for lies is scandalous and unjustifiable. If I could find evidence that Obama's real father was not the Kenyan Obama, so could foreign intelligence agencies."

Dreams from My Real Father: A Story of Reds and Deception will be available July 24, 2012. How the viewers will react to it is yet to be seen.
