DVD retail price: $49.99

Amazon DVD price: $34.48

Series documents the Louvre's study days, in which works by major artists are collected, removed from their frames, and set on easels, replicating the feel of an artist's studio. Curators, historians, restorers, and scientists examine and discuss them. Looking through their eyes and listening in on their conversations, we observe the restorations, repairs, and often capricious changes made over the centuries. Featuring expert commentary and engaging animations to explain and simplify complex language and concepts, the documentary showcases the works of Rembrandt, Leonardo da Vinci, Raphael, Watteau, and Poussin. DVD extras: booklet.
