Josh Mills, the son of legendary entertainer Edie Adams of the TV series Here's Edie, is interviewed by TV Time Machine radio host Jim Benson about Ms. Adams' remarkable life and career.

In this audio edition of TV Time Machine, we say, just the kovacs, ma'am, as we tune in to The Edie Adams Show. In this edition of our program, we are proud to welcome Josh Mills, the son of singer and TV star Edie Adams. From 1962-1964, Ms. Adams created, produced and starred in the ground-breaking variety show Here's Edie after the death of her husband, TV legend Ernie Kovacs, and is probably best known as the commercial spokeswoman for Muriel Cigars.

In these audio segments, Josh Mills will tell the surprising and compelling story behind this brilliant and innovative TV series, which is now available on the DVD, Here's Edie, The Edie Adams Television Collection. Again, for those of you intrepid enough to pick one up, feel free to smoke it sometime, as we butt out of the present, to light one up, in the past!
