CEELO GREEN

"Lobrance - Live in Vegas" dvd

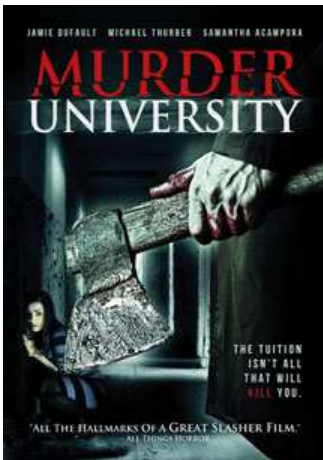

Ceelo Green gained popularity on a major level thanks in part to the TV show "The Voice" which features Green as a judge alongside several other notable pop singers BUT Green has been in the music business for just around 10 years now and his latest release is a dvd entitled "Lobrance".

This dvd is a fun little Vegas styled show that Ceelo put together but the flaw with the show is that you can't see a backing band which makes me assume that the music is all pre-taped. Dancing, music, special guests, glitter, diamonds & flash....all a huge part of this concert film and the highlight is probably something you'd never expect....BOY GEORGE!

Boy George has a cameo where he comes out & sings 3 songs but to be honest with you, I didn't think it was really Boy George at first because he comes out dressed as he did back in the day and it almost looks like an impersonator!

"Forget You" is the closer for this dvd and it's interesting to note that Ceelo never says the actual lyrics which are "Fk You"....he allows the crowd to say it during every verse!

My only complaint would be Ceelo's cover of "Need You Tonight" because he can't hold a candle to INXS's version but I give him an E for effort.

MURDER UNIVERSITY

Gory killings, an interesting story line, yet still low key & just a bit different than all the slick Hollywood horror movies out there today...that's how I'd describe "Murder University" because it's a quirky film that tells the tale of a young man who's dad was caught up in a ritualistic cult that terrorized a local college. I won't give away all the gruesome secrets & plots in this movie, I'll simply say the ending is interesting and the directors did a damn good job with the production & writing!

ROSES UNREAD

Musically Roses Unread are heavy with a melodic edge and I'd describe them as Lacuna Coil meets Taproot because their guitar tone is very similar to Taproot while the vocals bring to
