

Thompson); and Ashley Judd's "Maggie," post-traumatic stress disorder (Jennifer Hudson, Melanie Griffith, Ernie Hudson).

"Peter Simon's Through the Lens" (MVD/DVD, 2014, not rated, two discs). This is a sort of unconventional documentary as celebrated photojournalist Peter Simon offers up some of his best photos and provides background information, which naturally reveals autobiographical sketches of his time during the 1960s in a commune, exploring alternate lifestyles, the anti-war movement and, during the 1970s, the new-age movement, along with a fascination with reggae and his love for Martha's Vineyard, among other topics. Celebrity photos include his sister, Carly Simon. (There is some nudity.)

"Trap for Cinderella" (IFC/DVD, 2013, not rated, featurette, trailer). After a house fire kills her childhood friend, a badly burned 20-year-old woman awakens in a Swiss clinic with amnesia. When she finds her friend's diary, flashbacks unravel the mystery. Tuppence Middleton stars in this British film directed by Iain Softley ("Inkheart").

"Making the Rules" (Lionsgate/DVD/Digital, 2014, R for language, deleted/extended scenes, featurette, trailers). This independent comedy has a married chef (Jaime Pressly) injuring her hand on the job. Then, during a boring summer of recovery, she drifts into an affair with an old boyfriend (Robin Thicke). But after becoming pregnant, she finds herself asking, who's the daddy?
