

ON THE INDIE FRONT:

- "The Search for Simon": (2013) Carol Cleveland, Simon Jones, Sophie Aldred, Lucy Clements, Carol Cleveland, Millie Reeves, Noeleen Comiske. David is 39 and, for almost 30 years, he's been looking for evidence of alien activity since, when he was 10, 7-year-old brother Simon suddenly disappeared; David's father told him that "Simon was abducted by aliens." David vowed to find his brother -- or at the very least find out about the Aliens that took him. This quest has taken over and completely filled his life; it's more than a passion, it's an obsession. David's best (and only) friend Robert, saddened by his friend's obsession and unwillingness to let go of the past, tries his best to get him interested in other things: games, pub quizzes, re-enactment societies and even ... women. And then one day after a chance random encounter with a book writing psychologist with an ear for obsession, he catches the eye of a pretty young woman, and everything changes. On DVD from MVD Entertainment.
- "Satellite": (2014) Stephanie Szostack, Karl Geary, Pell James, Christina Kirk, Larry Fessenden. An indie romantic fable about a pair of millennials who give up everything they have in order to find something better. During a three-day marathon of passion, they make a pact to push each other to do the things they've avoided or are afraid of, and never lie to one another. Fueled by new love and a sense of adventure, Ro and Kevin impulsively quit their jobs, sell all their possessions, and begin stealing to make ends meet. However, their new life of free-spirited adventure is nearly derailed by Ro's self-destructive streak of jealousy and a dark secret she steadfastly refuses to reveal. From IndiePix.

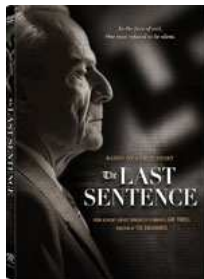

FOREIGN FILMS:

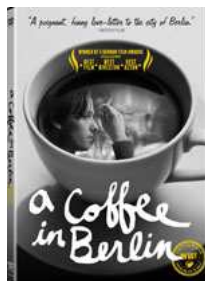

"Cannibal" (2014 — Spain), starring Antonio de la Torre and Olimpia Melinte, is the dark yet complex story of Carlos, the most respected tailor in Granada, Spain, who also happens to have a macabre hobby he keeps to himself. When her twin sister goes missing, Nina arrives in town to find her, and soon Carlos is at a crossroads — will Nina be yet another victim in his fruitless, fatal search for love, or will she be the first to show him just what it means to forge a true connection to someone else? "The Last Sentence" (2012 — Sweden), starring Jesper Christensen and Pernilla August, is the gripping true life story on the crusading Swedish journalist who mounted a one-man battle against his country's appeasement to Nazism. Set between 1933 and 1945, when Sweden was caught between the tightening vise of Nazi Germany and Stalin's Russia. At the time, the country's elite chose a policy of neutrality and compliance, with few daring to speak up against the evil around them. Among those who did, nobody was as vocal and uncompromising as Torngy Segerstedt (Jesper Christensen, the editor-in-chief of one of Sweden's leading newspapers and the most prominent Swedish journalist of the 20th century. Amidst the ensuing political turmoil of the era, Segerstedt's own personal life took a dramatic and scandalous turn as he entered into a very public affair with Maja Forssman (Pernilla August), the Jewish wife of his close friend, who happened to be the newspaper's publisher.
