Bow Down to Bob Mould

Old-schoolers know him from the grinding pioneers Husker Du, while younger fans might recognize his tasty riffs from not only the opening and closing credits for The Daily Show, but also The Colbert Report. Others may know him from a variety of projects: the post-Husker solo noise machine Sugar, or perhaps from the performances like that found on Bob Mould's latest DVD Circle of Friends.

But those who don't know what I'm talking about -- and those that do -- should check Mould on tour coming this October. He's chatting, signing and performing in honor of the new DVD, along with his backup band, who are pretty storied themselves, including Brendan Canty, drummer for another set of punk pioneers called Fugazi.
