DVD Review - Through the Years of Hip-Hop

Volume One: Graffiti

MVD

Rap entertainment.com presents this four part series entitled “The Architects” which lays out the history of Hip Hop through the words and images of the originators. “Volume One: Graffiti” features interviews with Seen, Iz, Cope, and others with an abundance of well filmed street shots that allow one to fully appreciate the art without being rushed. It ain’t Style Wars, but it covers much of the same ground, with more information on early bombers like Stay High 149.

The real gold here are the bonus videos, from RUN DMC’s groundbreaking “Rock Box”, to Rob Base & DJ E-Z Rock with “It Takes Two,” this shit’ll take you right back to the Much Music laser dance parties in High School. De La Soul’s “Buddy” is an excellent reminder of just how different it was in the early 90’s and with Old Schoolers the Crash Crew and Dana Dane rounding things out, this is a real lesson for those that weren’t born ‘till the 80’s (or 90’s, fuck...).

A little amateurish on the editing and flow, but all in all it’s pure “edutainment” for all the massive. Further installments will cover MCing, Breaking and DJing, so watch out for ‘em!

Peace, DMcC.
