Tatsumaki: Voivod Japan 2008 (MVD Visual)

By: Paul Autry

Here's a must have release for any true Voivod fan. Not only do you get an intense, twelve song concert performance, which is the main feature, you also get another three song performance, which was filmed in Quebec City in 2009. Once you're done getting your fill of Voivod live, there's an interview with Dave Grohl, who talks at length about the band and, of course, he has nothing but praise for them...well deserved praise I might add. Finally, there's "Panorama: Seeking Voivod," which is an unreleased French faux mini-documentary film which was actually quite entertaining to watch...even though you had to read the whole thing.
