"The Beatles: Rare and Unseen"

The Fab Four appear in old photos, recently rediscovered film clips, home movies and interviews with people who actually knew them in this rocking new collection. It includes the earliest known footage of the band onstage, in Liverpool in February 1962. Interview subjects include Phil Collins, Steve Harley, Norman "Hurricane" Smith and Beatles press officer Tony Barrow. Also appearing are early members of the Quarrymen, who remarkably don't seem bitter even though they came painfully close to being incredibly rich and famous. Unrated, 90 minutes.
