"Morning Glory - A Classic Album Under Review"

(Chrome Dreams)

by Paul Autry

I've seen a few of these "Under Review" DVD's. Some were good, some weren't so good. They're all pretty much the same. A group of people get together to talk about the band or, in this case, an album. I think you really need to be a fan of the band to be interested in these releases. I was never really into Oasis and I really didn't wanna sit through this one. But, I did...and not just because I had to review it. For the most part, the "Under Review" DVD's are put together rather well and they are worth watchin' at least once. This one features contributions official Oasis biographer Paolo Hewitt, Clint Boon, John Robb, Nigel Clark, Pat Gilbert, DJ Justin Moorhouse and ex-Uncut editor Paul Lester. More information about each of these people can be found in the bonus section. There's also an interview from 1995, "When Oasis Met Blur," which was before they became chart rivals. It's nice to have, I guess. I can never get into interviews you have to watch unless it's the actual interview, which this isn't. It's an audio file with random images. Even if I was into the band, this feature wouldn't really appeal to me. But, if you're a fan and you're wondering if this is worth picking up...I'd say yes. You'd get your money's worth out of this one.
