I've always felt that this had to be a major inspiration to Tim Burton for EDWARD SCISSORHANDS – as they definitely share some themes. There's seriously no other scifi flick quite like this. I love the transporting of the brain into a robot. I love that the robot retains the soul. This film is just kind of awesome. Wouldn't you love to have your brain transplanted into a gigantic robot upon death? It'd just be the best thing ever, right?

THE DISCO EXORCIST

Amazon only has 20 of these left before they have to restock for more. I haven't seen this – but damned if I'm not excited to give it a go. This looks like my kind of fun exploitation. Heard fun things about it.
