Deathchant - I Vinyl

Proto metal psych from the wildest band in LA. Raging, drug hungry guitar maniacs tripping through your house to raid your mother's medicine cabinet

Heavy music's evolution has always been a murky swamp of sub-genres. But theirs is a special, transcendent sound. This is a rerelease of their first studio album!

Rampage - Veil Of Mourn Vinyl

Technical, yet to the point Speed/Thrash from Australia. Originally from 1988.

Long-overdue vinyl reissue of the cult lone album of Australia's RAMPAGE. There's a distinct ruggedness to the band's ceaselessly shifting style of thrash. Mind you, NOT necessarily "rawness" - although the album's production certainly tends toward the rough - but RAMPAGE's execution eschews the super-clean sharpness that thrash metal was largely heading toward in the post-Master of Puppets era.

FABRIKA RECORDS

MVD Welcomes

fabrikarecords.com

Fabrika Records was founded 2012 in Athens/Greece, with the intention of becoming a home for new and unconventional artists, which remains to this day our most important function. Fabrika publishes mainly "underground" music, the roots of which are to be found in the Goth and Dark-Wave scene of the 80s. Like the first independent labels that evolved back then, we also orient ourselves outside the current marketing mechanisms. We are critical in our selections and therefore it is not the quantity produced that defines the label. Some of the main protagonists of the current Dark-Wave scene like Harsh Symmetry, Lebanon Hanover, She Past Away, Selofan, The Glass Beads, are members of the Fabrika-Family and this encourages us to continue offering a platform to young musicians untouched by the norms of the entertainment industry.

Lillian Axe - Psychoschizophrenia

First time reissue of the fourth studio album by Lillian Axe

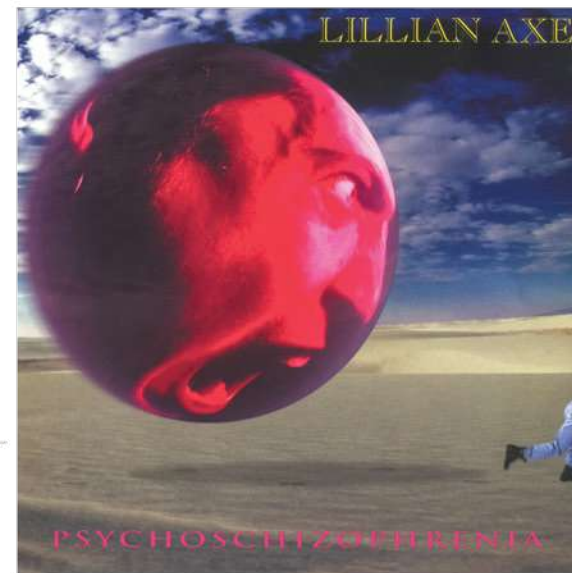

Lillian Axe had just began turning people's head with several hits from their "Poetic Justice" in 1992 when grunge wave came sweeping in. The band tried to survive the change by releasing "Psychoschizophrenia" which incorporated a darker element and deeper essence to the music and lyric department respectively. Big thumbs up to Stevie Blaze who wrote all the songs, this man is simply a genius definition, not to mention the thrilling guitar solos he had on this album.

Impellitteri - Pedal To The Metal

First time on vinyl! Impellitteri's eighth full-length studio album.

Chris Impellitteri and company are back with the band's follow album up to 2002's System X. Like System X, Pedal to the Metal features a new lead vocalist for the band. Curtis Skelton takes over behind the mic as Graham Bonnet is now out of the picture. System X, fronted by Graham Bonnet certainly alienated a lot of fans. Bonnet had pretty big shoes to fill with the departure of former lead man Rob Rock, and many fans obviously felt that he could not get the job done. However, I felt (and still do) that System X was a great album. That album is full of energy, emotion, melodies, and plenty of Chris' shred work to go around.

Wolfgang Haffner - Silent World Vinyl

180g Virgin Vinyl, black incl. 24Bit Hi Res Download Code. "Silent World" is master of clarity, focus, and reduction feat. Dominic Miller, Bill Evans.

Sometimes we're in the world of hymns, sometimes of dreams, but there is always a melody to be grasped and a pulse to be felt, and those points of reference give a basis for the listener to focus and to enjoy the music thoroughly.

Metal Marty - Metal Marty's Greatest Hits

Supersuckers guitar player Metal Marty releases solo album. Backed by bandmates, Eddie Spaghetti and Chris Von Streicher!

Drop the needle on the opening number "Magic City" and for the next 35 minutes you will be taken on a tour of an unusual lakeside resort town with a penchant for partying and no shortage of odd characters. "It's quite a place if ya got grit, which we have in spades," adds Marty. Metal Marty's Greatest Hits pay tribute to the small Idaho burgh, spinning tales of common folks, blue collar laborers and dudes named 'Hot Tub' that work hard during the day and play harder at night, conjuring Steve Earle at times, evoking Iggy Pop at others.

"I think it sounds like a Greatest Hits record, there's every kind of song on it, yet it still flows," explains Marty, "and it's a ridiculous title for a first record." The album slips effortlessly across genres while never disrupting the overall tone or losing it's deep sense of optimism. The balls-out barnburner "Working My Ass Off" recalls the wildest rockers from the 1950's; "Idaho, Baby" is a shot of anthemic Americana with a not-so-subtle nod to Gary Glitter; and the country-tinged rocker.

"Goddamn Divorce" feels like a pat on the shoulder from Lebowski's buddy Donnie, "Fuck it, dude, let's go bowling." "I've been talking about doing a solo album for years and I think Eddie got sick of me yammering on about it, so we just starting writing," Marty explains. "We hung out in Magic City and wrote down all the funny shit that happens to him and turned them into songs," recalls Eddie Spaghetti who co-wrote the album with Marty. "It's a pretty literal interpretation of his life," continues Eddie, "You want to know the legend of Metal Marty - this is it."

40 YEARS OF EXCLUSIVE BLUES

The definitive overview of one of the most intense and hard playing Chicago Blues guitarists of the past few decades. The set commences with his classic studio album 'Addressing The Nation With The Blues' cut at Chicago's Soto Sound studio. The second CD features all of Byther's ultra rare pre-fame 45s, some of them stone collectors items and finishes with some very funky live club tracks.

"The band, crowded onto a small stage tucked into a corner of the bar, locks into a rollicking, Chicago blues groove. Then he steps back and discharges a series of clear, surprisingly fat-toned notes from his Stratocaster, turning the dancers into watchers, and the watchers into people standing, whistling and applauding."
NILES FRANTZ on Byther Smith at Koko Taylor's Chicago Blues Club, January 1996.

Back to old Band trademarks! The 11th album of these outstanding german progressive, avantgarde black metallers, released in 2016. Must have!

the 11th album of German scene forerunner. the band polarized, not least through their musical unpredictability and experimentation its annexes shaft. Conceptually, this album is based on material which i.a. was planned as the successor of „Nektar“, but went down in the confusion of the subsequent band history. It combines Old Trade Marks with the experimentation of recent years.

Nostalgia - Wounds CD

Of course, it's Nostalgia. They can't do anything wrong. Top-tier atmospheric black metal.

There is a pronounced Alcest/Amesoeurs influence at times here; don't write it off as Neige worship though; Alex Beccara is very much doing his own thing, with more emphasis on raw black metal and catchy, dare I say almost poppy metal riffs. It's an incredible creation from an inspired artist. The whole discography is a thrilling journey; excuse me while I buy the rest of it.

Anthropocene is the third album by Ophiocordyceps, a brutal slam band from northern Italy. Rampage - Veil Of Mourn CD

Technical, yet to the point Speed/Thrash from Australia. Originally from 1988.

Long-overdue vinyl reissue of the cult lone album of Australia's RAMPAGE. There's a distinct ruggedness to the band's ceaselessly shifting style of thrash. Mind you, NOT necessarily "rawness" - although the album's production certainly tends toward the rough - but RAMPAGE's execution eschews the super-clean sharpness that thrash metal was largely heading toward in the post-Master of Puppets era.

The Outcasts - Stay Young

The Outcasts turn back the clock with Stay Young, their first single in 35 years

It's fair to say the latest incarnation of The Outcasts, who split in 1985 and reunited in 2011, have come up with a release which encapsulates all that's good about the band. It's available on US label Violated Records as a three-track 7in single on three different variants of coloured vinyl, or as a five-track CD EP, and a fine investment it is, if you can track one down. The A-side contains one new song and one cover. The new one is the title track Stay Young, written by guitarist Martin Cowan and bassist Petesy Burns, and it's fair to say it's classic Outcasts, all about growing old with your loved one. The cover is The Pressure's On, originally by fellow Belfast band Rudi, who were Good Vibrations labelmates back in the day, and they more than do it justice. The B-side contains another original new song, Rebel Rock Radio, a slower number whose central guitar riff owes a lot to The Sweet's Blockbuster or David Bowie's Jean Genie. The CD EP contains two extra tracks, 78 and You're A Disease, the latter being a new recording of one of their very earliest songs. The good news for long-time fans - or anyone who somehow hasn't discovered The Outcasts

Special Duties - 7 Days A Week

Classic UK82 heroes, Special Duties return in 2021. The band started in Colchester, Essex, UK as teen punks with a purpose in 1977

Chamel House released their debut single, the classic, Violent Society ("Violent Society" b/w "Colchester Council"). After years of practice and two more EPs (Police State and Bullshit Crass both on Rondelet), Special Duties, now with Rondelet Music (Anti-Pasti, Riot Squad, The Fits, The Membranes, The Treats), made a rebellious record with a statement, '77 in '82. As many 'punk' bands (Special Duties' influences The Adverts, The Boys included) were going arty or commercial or defunct, The Class of 1982 was redefining punk; harsher and angrier, eschewing the power-pop which had gripped early bands. Peers - such as Discharge, Abrasive Wheels, Chaos UK, GBH, Exploited, Varukers - embraced speedy riffs and snarls instead of hooks and skinny ties. The late 90's saw a rebirth of Special Duties. With reissues of their debut LP, '77 in '82 on Captain Oi! and Distorted Truth on Get Back, they band began to leave a stamp in a new generation of punks' consciousness. Special Duties were requested to play UK punk festivals, most notably, Fuck Reading and Holidays in the Sun. This led to '77 in '97 also on Captain Oi! (run by Mark Brennan of The Business, who influenced the band as well). This resurgence also saw the band come stateside to the legendary CBGB's in 1998. A recording was self-released. Another single, "Wembley Wembley!" and a split EP with namesake, Violent Society from Philly. A third rising came in quarantine of 2020. Those recordings now see daylight on this fantastic record, Seven Days a Week Violated Records, also home of original legends and contemporary killers such as The Outcasts, The Violators, Foreign Legion, Vice Squad, The Parasitix, Menace, Red Alert, Eater and more, is now releasing Special Duties.

Wolfgang Haffner - Silent World CD

Perhaps the most personal album of drummer-composer Wolfgang Haffner yet. A master of clarity, focus, and reduction feat. Dominic Miller, Bill Evans.

"Silent World" is about the essentials of being human, a mes-sage which Haffner signals clearly with concise track titles such as "The Peace Inside", "Hope" or "Belief". Sometimes we're in the world of hymns, sometimes of dreams, but there is always a melody to be grasped and a pulse to be felt, and those points of reference give a basis for the listener to focus and to enjoy the music thoroughly.

Blood + Thunder: The Sound Of Alberts

AC/DC and The Easybeats - Scottish/Australian immigrant brothers change the world when they form two huge rock bands. A rock & roll dynasty is born!

It's 1964. At an Australian migrant hostel, the Young brothers from Scotland form the pop phenom band Easybeats whose hit song Friday On My Mind conquered the globe. Their brothers, in turn, later become the rawest, loudest rock superstars ever: AC/DC. Those bands and more --Ted Albert's label--tell the story of a rock soundtrack that shook the world. This program is a two episode series, each episode is one hour long. Australia got its own rock & roll in the '70s because of a life-long bond forged a decade earlier between music company Alberts and the Youngs, an immigrant family from Glasgow. AC/DC played so loud and with such raw energy that the music reverberated across the world.

It's 1964. The conservative, cultured Albert music dynasty and the Young family, residents of the Villawood Migrant Hostel, both have music running through their veins. Their sons come together and one of the most exciting periods in Australian cultural history begins. Ted Albert wants Australia to have its own songbook. He first signs Billy Thorpe & The Aztecs then The Easybeats, founded on the raw talent of teenager George Young and two other irrepressible migrant kids Harry Vanda and Stevie Wright. The Easybeats win over the locals with She's So Fine, do a deal with United Artists in the US, then give Australia its first international hit with Friday on My Mind in 1966. George and Harry finesse their musical skills in London while Ted matches their songs with the artists in Alberts' stable. Alberts hits flood the charts, not just rock & roll but also cracking pop; Ted Mulry's Falling in Love Again, Alison MacCallum's Superman, John Paul Young's Pasadena and Love is in the Air. AC/DC, featuring Angus and Malcolm Young and a force of nature called Bon Scott, The Angels and Rose Tattoo all join the Alberts stable. Brian Johnson steps in when the lifestyle claims Bon in 1980, and the Back in Black album is a massive success across the world. While coloured by tragedy, it is a triumph for Ted Albert who backed the band with rock-solid conviction.

PRESS

"All of Clarke's work has a lovely musical feel. Few filmmakers appreciate as readily as he does that the tone of a film is set as much by sound as by pictures. Clarke calls it 'playing music upon the collective memory". He says he researches the subject,"

—Graeme Blundell, The Australian

"This one, ... charting the rise of both Alberts music publishing and a distinctive Australian sound, is a cracker. There is certainly plenty of terrific archival footage and perhaps not a truly rigorous intellectual standard but this also exposes an i"

—Melinda Houston, Sydney Morning Herald

"ONE OF THE BEST VAMPIRE MOVIES OF ALL TIME." - Esquire

Immediately after completing FLESH FOR FRANKENSTEIN, writer/director Paul Morrissey and star Udo Kier created what remains a sumptuously depraved Euroshocker, cunning political allegory and "wickedly funny horror that obliterates the line between art and bad taste" (Pop Culture Beast): Desperate for virgin blood, Count Dracula - Kier in the performance Flavorwire calls "one of cinema's Top 5 Best Draculas" - journeys to an Italian villa only to discover the family's three young daughters are also coveted by the estate's Marxist stud (Joe Dallesandro of Morrissey's FLESH, TRASH and HEAT). Stefania Casini (SUSPIRIA) and BICYCLE THIEVES director Vittorio De Sica co-star - with an unforgettable cameo by Roman Polanski - in "one of the most unique vampire films in history" (Oh! The Horror), now scanned uncut in 4K from the original negative for the first time ever.

Becky

A teenager's weekend at a lake house with her father takes a turn for the worse when a group of convicts wreaks havoc on their lives.

Starring then 14 year old phenom, Lulu Wilson (TV's The Haunting of Hill House, Annabelle: Creation, Ouija: Origin of Evil) as a pint-sized femme fatale, Kevin James (TV's Kevin Can Wait, Grown-Ups) in a surprise turn as a stone-cold Neo-Nazi killer, and Joel McHale (TV's Community, Happily), Becky is a "a stylishly crafted and tenaciously acted thriller which should leave gorehounds plenty satisfied" (Shaun Monro, Flickering Myth). "Featuring strong performances, whip-smart dialogue... and some of the most gruesome horror to ever come from north of the border, Becky is a pleasant little surprise. But make no mistake: it is straight up gleefully irresponsible revenge horror and is definitely not for the squeamish" (Frank Wilkins, Reel Reviews).

Blitzed: The 80s Blitz Kids Story

Inspired by David Bowie, The 80s Blitz Club kids created their own future, and brought it out at night.

Boy George was in the cloak room (admittedly stealing money from the purses).... Bowie, synth beats, and a new freedom of sexual identity were in the air. The Blitz Club spell was cast and a hotbed of talent emerged: Ultravox, Spandau Ballet, Boy George, Soft Cell, Depeche Mode, Sade, and practically everyone else you've ever heard from the era. This is the entertainingly told story of a cultural revolution - spawned from a grimy West End club patronized by impoverished - but lavishly wardrobe - trendsetters, art students and trans slackers. It was a movement that redefined music, fashion, and sexual expression.

Were they cool? Well, Mick Jagger was turned away from the door for not being well enough dressed. But not so cool on the night their icon David Bowie walked in the door to select dancers to be the cast in his acclaimed Ashes to Ashes video - shot that very night. Boy George tells the story -- and is immediately and hilariously contradicted by others. Rusty Egan's pied piper call summoned the fanciful phoenix that rose up in mascara, wondrous regalia, coiffed hair and outlandish accoutrements accompanied by pioneering synth grooves and looks inspired by the Ziggy's and Roxy's of the world. Radio 1 DJs began pumping it out and MTV killed the radio star, now there were video stars. And the world was never the same. Derided by many, the New Romantics can now claim influence that stretches to the modern wave of synth bands, sounds, gender fluidity and fashion sensibilities that mark the second decade of the 21st century. The music the scene spawned on the dance floor of Egan's Blitz nightclub in Covent Garden can be heard on dance floors, films and TV soundtracks to this very day. Through interviews with key players, current contemporaries, punters and pundits together with archival footage, lovingly recreated scenes and original footage we will show how and why the movement took hold and where it landed today.

PRESS

"A substantial, inspiring work about a legendary club night that was an integral part of a youth culture movement that helped shaped more open attitudes towards sexuality, and continues to have an impact on fashion, music, and beyond."

—James Kleinmann, The Queer Review

"Inspired by David Bowie and driven by a gender bending, genre busting desire to make it, these penniless superstars in the making from Boy George to Culture Club to Spandau Ballet, Visage, Ultravox and Sade would go on to change the face of fashion, music"

—Nicole Shiro, AGLIFF Festival, Austin
