

BLOGS | JAM SESSION

Mojo Nixon Says, "My Doll Head Is Throbbing!" (Not What You're Thinking)

R

By Jay Allen Sanford | Posted November 6, 2011, 6:06 a.m.

A Mojo Nixon bobblehead doll is now available from Aggrona 500 numbered "throbble"-heads and priced at $19.95.

Nixon was born Neill Kirby McMillan, Jr., on August 2, 1957 in North Carolina. A part of the psychobilly movement, he is known for his boisterousness, his often scathing critiques of pop culture, and his political views.

He paired with Skid Roper (aka Richard Banke) in the early 1980s, mostly providing instrumental backup to Nixon's lyrics. Nixon and Roper released their first album in 1985 on Enigma Records. Although it is officially Mojo Nixon and Skid Roper, many fans refer to it as Nixon and Horny. The song "Jesus at McDonald's" from that album was a noteworthy single.

The duo's third album, 1987's Bo-Day-Shus!!! featured the song "Everywhere," a deification of Elvis Presley, which is probably the most well-known song (he later declared that his personal religious trinity consisted of Foghorn Leghorn, and Otis Campbell).

Throughout the late 1980s, Nixon and Roper frequently insulted celebrities such as MTV VJ Martha Quinn ("Stuffin' Martha's