

<http://weirdestband.files.wordpress.com/2013/07/devo-throbblehead.jpg>) I really hope we get to take the people over at Aggronautix out for beers someday, because those guys are frickin' awesome. Their Throbblehead series sometimes seems like it's ripped from the pages of this blog: GG Allin (<http://aggronautix.com/products.cfm?productid=84>), Mojo Nixon (<http://aggronautix.com/products.cfm?productid=41>), Roky Erickson (<http://aggronautix.com/products.cfm?productid=33>) (OK, Roky's not on the Weird List yet, but he probably should be). If they come out with an Anklepants (<http://weirdestbandintheworld.com/2012/02/15/weird-band-of-the-week-anklepants/>) Throbblehead, we'll take that as proof that they're mining our Weird List for likely candidates to immortalize in polyresin.

The latest entry in Aggronautix's growing pantheon of weirdo Throbbleheads is none other than DEVO (<http://weirdestbandintheworld.com/tag/devo/>). Based on the classic look from the band's 1980 "Freedom of Choice" tour, the seven-inch figure sports a bitchin' keytar and a red Energy Dome hat—which bobbles! To the best of our knowledge, the keytar doesn't work—but it still looks bitchin'.

The DEVO Throbblehead figures ship in September and only 2,000 are being made, so pre-order yours now (<http://aggronautix.com/products.cfm?productid=88>). And as if you needed any more convincing, here's a video starring Gerry Casale and, uh, some other dude, touting the Throbblehead's many virtues.

About these ads (<http://en.wordpress.com/about-these-ads/>)

- Red Stag by Jim Beam® Bourbon. <http://bit.ly/1nMm244>

-
-
-

- <http://bit.ly/1nMm244>

About weirdestband

Founder of Weirdest Band in the World. Enabler of Jake Manson's binge drinking.

View all posts by weirdestband »