Unusual Show of the Week: Wrekmeister Harmonies @ Golden Gate Bridge

Tired of hearing the same old performance in the same old bars, clubs, and art galleries? How about hitting an event at the Golden Gate Bridge Friday?

Chicago composer/sound artist Wrekmeister Harmonies, (aka J.R. Robinson—pictured here both bearded and cleanshaven) creates live ambient recordings around the world, from the Pompidou in Paris to the Guggenheim in New York.

This Friday, Feb. 6, he'll be "projecting ambient tone fields and recording the results" at the Golden Gate Bridge at 9 a.m. and then later at the SF MOMA at 4 p.m. More info on the Wrekmeister here.
