Kult Ov Azazel "Destroying the Sacred" (2009) Arctic Music

JC's head on a stick. If the cover wasn't a clue.

Aggression doesn't even begin to describe the fury contained on "Destroying the Sacred." Unholy blasphemy spewed forth at the speed of light, in quick machine gun bursts. KOA's

Xaphan and Xul write soaring black metal opuses that are bereft of lame pretensions and get straight to the point. Melodies are intricately woven into the storm of blastbeats illustrating a songwriting depth absent from most of their blackmetal counterparts.

Christianity, weakness and the herd mentality are the primary targets of their rage filled anthems.

My favorite tracks are the album opener 'Nocturnal Blasphemy', 'Conquer and Decimate' and the title track, 'Destroying the Sacred.'

This is an excellent addition to their already stellar discography. One of the best USBM outfits, period. I can't understand why they are often overlooked.

For fans of Teratism, Nightbringer, Judas Iscariot, Krieg, Marduk and Leviathan.
